Bespoke industrial-looking steel and glass doors are a smart way to separate living areas
